This office action is responsive to communications filed 10/18/2005.

Claims 1 – 9 are pending.

1. Applicant's election without traverse of Species A in the reply filed on 10/18/05 is acknowledged.
2. Claims 6 – 8 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 10/18/05.

Claims 1 – 5 and 9 remain for further consideration.

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claims 4 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Each of the claims 4 and 5 recites in the preamble "the reed valve of any one of claim 1". This recitation is unclear rendering the claims indefinite. In this office action claims 4 and 5 are taken to be dependent from claim 1.

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 1, 5 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ushijima et al. (US 4,083,184).

Ushijima discloses (Figs. 1 – 4) a reed valve (54) provided with a support means in the form of a plate shaped support substrate (56) with a valve hole formed therein and a rib (i.e. the material bridge of the substrate (56) dividing the valve hole into spaces (64)) extending along the centerline dividing the valve hole into two spaces (64), and a flexible plate-shaped reed (68) covering the valve hole and having one end in a longitudinal direction that is fixed via bolts (70) to the support substrate with a surface of the rib opposite to the reed being inherently positioned on substantially the same plane as a surface of the support base to which the rib is attached. The reed valve (54) is attached inside a secondary air supply passage (see Fig. 1) and configured such that the exhaust gas does not flow into the intake device.

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

9. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ushijima et al. (US 4,083,184).

The patent to Ushijima et al. discloses the claimed invention with the exception of explicitly disclosing the surface of the rib opposite to a surface facing the reed to have a V-shaped cross-section.

To provide a V-shaped cross-section to the stated surface of the reed is considered to be an obvious design expedient over those features disclosed in Ushijima et al. in that it neither solves any stated problem nor provided any new and/or unexpected result.

10. Claims 2 and 3 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

11. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Ramesh Krishnamurthy whose telephone number is (571) 272 – 4914. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday - Friday from 10:00 AM to 6:30 PM.
